“Half Way”

Nobody ever told me that “half way” could be both a very exciting but also somewhat scary term. Upon ending our exams last week, we students, of the first class at the Barcelona College of Chiropractic, are now exactly half way through our 5 years of study. What a feeling! One met with both excitement and nervousness. Excitement that we are just that much closer to being able to help people optimize their health and that we have learned so much already. I am perplexed and awe struck at the beauty of the human body and never before knew how innately perfect we were designed. Nervousness because time is flying so fast and soon that means each of us will carry the individual responsibility of being a Chiropractor and representing all that is encompassed within the profession. The friendships and bonds that have formed within our little community are very special and I have never felt more supported in anything that I have ever done. But more than anything, I look forward to the following 2 ½ years, where I will only begin to apply all this amazing knowledge as we start in the office and begin to experience the beauty of chiropractic through our own hands! This has been, is and will continue to be the most amazing challenge I have ever had! Thank you to my fellow BCC classmates, staff and supporters for all your hard work! Here is to the next 2 ½ years!
